

Autumn is a wonderful season. When I was a teenager it made me gloomy. That changed in one autumn when I biked some 25 km every day to the school where I taught as a young teacher before I really graduated. I enjoyed the smell of the early mornings with a low hanging sun, the radiant colors of the trees and the work on the fields. It was only then that I realized the meaning of autumn, the season of the harvest. The curiosity of what nature and hard work had brought. This experience has never left me. I hope that this autumn brings you the same satisfaction, starting with this newsletter that makes me proud of our members, your efforts to merge profitability and care for the farms, the fields and the people who work there.

...but a New Zealand member kindly pointed me yesterday at the fact that it is spring on the other side of the world, where the snow now melts. We are marvelous, global group.

New affiliate member: GFRAS joins the SAI Platform

We are happy to announce that the SAI Platform has a new affiliate member: the Global Forum for Rural Advisory Services (GFRAS).

GFRAS' mission is to provide advocacy and leadership on pluralistic, demand-driven rural advisory services. GFRAS does this in the context of the global development agenda, with a goal of promoting sustainable growth and reducing poverty.

New Chapter to be established in Poland

As a result of the workshop held in Poland last spring, a group of local food companies asked to establish a SAI Platform chapter. The enthusiastic feedback and the great potential impact convinced both the SAI Platform and the GlobalGAP to unite resources: a kick off fund of EUR 10.000 has been granted by both GlobalGAP and SAI Platform.

New Working Group on Meat Sustainability in view

The creation of a working group on meat is being explored by some of our members, with McDonald's hosting and supporting. A preliminary meeting was held to define the group's agenda and to identify a potential core group.

Workshop on Sustainable Pest Management

The WG Fruit held its first workshop on the issue of Sustainable Pest Management (SPM). The event, open to all SAI members, was hosted by the WG chairman, Ernesto Brovelli at Coca-Cola Europe in Berlin.

Two leading professors highlighted options for better practices, a farmer shared experience of alternative approaches, a representative of the processing industry discussed risks and associated management and an official of the German Ministry of Agriculture described legislative frameworks in the EU countries related to this

Talking about us?

"Convince just 100 key companies to go sustainable and" WWF's Jason Clay says "global markets will shift to protect the planet our consumption has already out-grown". Watch this extraor-

Working Group on Water and Agriculture

Roll-out water pilot project launched in India

The Working Group on Water and Agriculture (WGWA) has chosen to collaborate with the International Crops Research Institute for the Semi-Arid Tropics (ICRISAT) to conduct a “roll-out project” aimed at scaling up the use of good water management practices, and related tools, in North-West India. The project will last two years with an overall budget of EUR 70.000. Coca-Cola, Nestle, PepsiCo and Unilever have already committed some funding to the project. We would welcome other companies to contribute through financial support and/or in kind support from local staff.

11 technical briefs published

Last Summer, the Working Group on Water and Agriculture (WGWA), thanks to the contribution of the consultant Javiera Charad, published 11 technical documents related to water use and conservation at farm level.

The technical briefs are accessible through our web-based library on:
